What you should know if someone in your home has these symptoms consistent with COVID-19:

- Fever
- Cough
- Shortness of breath

Pay attention to your own health. Watch for signs of illness, especially after someone in your home is treated by first responders or is taken to the hospital for COVID-19 and flu-like symptoms.

- If someone in your home becomes ill, call your health care provider for instructions.

Keep your home as clean and as safe as possible.

- Follow Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidance on home cleaning, including regular cleaning and disinfection of frequently-touched surfaces, such as tables, hard-backed chairs, doorknobs, handles, phones and computer, toilets, and sinks.

Stay home as much as possible to comply with Sonoma County’s shelter in place order.

- Go out only for essential needs such as food and healthcare for yourself or family.
- When possible, use home delivery services to limit trips outside your home.
- If you need to call 911, please advise the emergency dispatcher if you have had an illness within your home.
- Follow any special instructions provided for the safety of responders and other household members.
